NOW CHECK THE MEANING IN THE SENTENCES:

Anne: [...] shot and wounded a grand stag which has now crossed over onto Crown land and needs...

Philip: Needs finishing off on compassionate grounds.

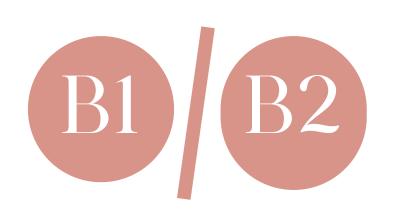

Anne: You need to find a young woman who's free to be where you want when you want and is willing to give up her life for you.

Philip: So I suppose I must have seen you growing up on the estate at Sandringham when you lived in the cottage there.

Man: Her Majesty asked me to apologize for not meeting you in person, but she's out stalking with the rest of the family.

PHRASAL VERBS IDIOMS

NOW CHECK THE MEANING IN THE SENTENCES:

Camila: Like this new one. Diana Spencer? Mightn't she fit the bill?

Charles: Don't say that.

Philip: Anne caught a glimpse out by Connachcraig.

Elizabeth: Did you get a shot off?

Diana: It's a complete rip-off. I don't know why I do it.

Philip: Perhaps because you enjoy cleaning.

Denis Thatcher: I had a call from Malcolm Muggeridge this morning, who said, "Watch out for the tests."

Elizabeth: No, one could scarcely get rid of them.

Margaret: Hmm.

Anne: There'll be time for that later.

Charles: That's what everyone keeps saying. "There'll be time for that later, just get on with it."

- Oh, I loved it. I adore Verdi. He's so... so romantic.
- No, it's all right. It's English money, but you can spend it in Scotland.
- It's not that, sir. Tips are left at the end of the stay.
- I'm so glad you agreed to join us.
- And you do realize this is supposed to be a bank holiday?
- I'm hoping it'll be my first time in Scotland when I manage to catch something other than a cold.
- Oh, yes, the stag. It's all anyone could talk about at dinner last night.
- Actually, I do quite enjoy cleaning. And ironing. God, does that make me tragic?
- In the history of Balmoral, no one has ever passed the test with such flying colors.

Adjust the sight to 100 yards. And we release the lock... And gently squeeze the trigger.

O1:29 See that wee stream down there? That is the border where our estate ends and our neighbor's estate begins.

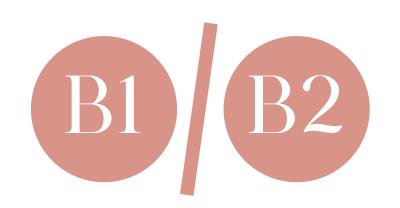

[...] the decimation of the public sector and heavy industry would risk the specter of mass unemployment [...]

The way those men patronize me, lecture me.

Speaking of wet, that's the forecast for Balmoral. So no golf for yours truly.

My father used to give a sermon. "God needs no faint hearts for his ambassadors."

Her Majesty asked me to apologize for not meeting you in person, but she's out stalking with the rest of the family.
